English museums and galleries

Introduction

The purpose of this report is to analyse the attendance of museums and galleries in England. It will offer a brief review of the data and some recommendations on how to increase the rate of people's attendance.

General tendencies

As we can see, the chart presents the information about five national museums and galleries in England for three years. The attendance of some museums and galleries has been increasing since 2013. They are British Museum, National Gallery and Tate Gallery. Visits to Natural History Museum and Science Museum, on contrary, have been reduced.

Comparisons

We can say that the British Museum has increased its attendance the most. The Tate Gallery's progress is the slowest. The attendance of the Science Museum is reducing faster than the one of the Natural History Museum.

Recommendations

Museums and galleries should appeal mostly to young people because they are our future. Directors of museums and galleries should make discounts for ~~the~~ students. Moreover, they should promote museums in the social networking sites as they are very popular among young people. In addition, it is necessary to hire guides who refer to their job respectively, who really interested in the history of England and devoted to their profession.

Conclusion

Taking everything into account, it is possible to say that I have draw on the general tendencies of the attendance of
